Reminder@BeeBomb.com
Patent Pending

I am forgetful, I even forget to check my calendar, but I always check my email. So I created a very simple program to help me remember things called Reminder@BeeBomb.com.

Here is how it works:

Send an email to Reminder@BeeBomb.com with a date in the subject and anything else you want to include in the subject... such as the subject.

Then on the date you specified in the subject, the email will be sent back to you. That's it.

No need to check your day planner or calendar software. Just check your email as usual.

Any date format, any where in the subject will work, including the day of the week.

So give it a try and don't forget that thing you are supposed to do next week... or did you forget already.

Yes of course it's free and no, we won't give out your email address to anyone, ever.
